Biography - Dr. Lijie Zhou

Dr. Lijie Zhou is working at Southern Utah University as an associate professor in Strategic Communication. Lijie has been teaching visual literacy and application-related classes in both undergraduate and master levels. His research focuses mainly on individuals' psychological reactions to various visual elements and visual stimuli by using eye tracking and virtual reality technologies.

As a landscape photographer, he believes capturing landscapes goes beyond simply recording what you see with a camera. It's about creativity and self-expression. Advances in camera gear and editing techniques have opened up endless possibilities for landscape photographers to craft unique works of art that reflect their own visions of the world. For him, each photo journal is more than just a collection of beautiful images; it's filled with a love for the wild, cherished friendships, and a deep sense of happiness.
